Town twinning supports international understanding and helps us understand and tolerate each other – despite all our differences. We have to maintain this contact in future as well, so different societies do not lose sight of each other and misunderstandings or even hostilities break out.

Experiencing twinning is an ongoing, generation-spanning task that is both small and large-scale. This principle applies especially to twinning with Kfar Saba, as Germany is connected and will remain so to Israel to a significant degree for historic reasons.
