

Montreux
Twinned with since 1953

National Councillor
Laurent Wehrli
Mayor

The cities of Montreux and Wiesbaden have political, cultural and educational exchanges for more than 60 years. These links are important for many inhabitants of our two towns. For example, it is interesting to note that more than two generations of young people, after a stay in the other city, continue to have contacts to better know each other. Achieve better knowledge and better mutual understanding, with the common wish to be a part of our world, is so important in our society ! That is a great motivation for the relationships between our sister cities.

In the future, we'll have to share more and more our knowledge and experiences at many levels. At the political level, it concerns the governance of our cities. At the personal level, it is to maintain an open mind, and commitment. At the society level, it is to better integrate new members in the complete respect of our laws and situations. So we will continue to have political, cultural and educational exchanges. Because we share the same vision of peace and friendship, and we want to help to build a world where it is well to live together.
