San Sebastián/ Donostia has a long experience as a city which twinning with other cities all over the world. For us, it has been a very rich process, because it has built links among people and organizations who live very far one from another. Sharing experiences, common problems, new targets... is always an opportunity to improve as a city. In that way, our relationship with Wiesbaden has been one of the most actives, and it always has strenghten links among both cities.

We think twinings should allow us to improve in terms of urban solutions for all the challenges cities must face in the next year, learning of others succesful experiencies, as well as giving a better cultural and touristic offer and, of course, putting in contact people of different places and originis to enrich our lives as citizens.
